CASE STUDY

Somesh Sharma grew up in a robust north Indian family where taking medicines for petty problems was frowned upon. Elders in the family believed that minor ailments could be cured by appropriate precaution and diet control. Somesh particularly remembered how he chided for wanting to eat ice-cream when his throat was sore. He was not only denied his favorite ice-cream, but was also administered liberal doses for ginger juice.

Somesh majored in commerce in college and rounded-off his studies with MBA in marketing from USA. He returned to India and bought out Cool Cream Pvt. Ltd., a company recognized as manufacturer of finest ice-cream throughout the country.

Somesh was visiting his elder sister who stayed in another town when his throat gets infected. Out of the old habit, he gave up ice-cream and asked his sister for some ginger juice. His sister, out of sympathy for her brother, mixed some ginger juice in a bowl of ice-cream and Somesh ate the innovative product with great delight.

The entrepreneur in Somesh told him that his sister had an excellent marketable product. Shortly after returning of his company, Somesh instructed the R&D centre at Cool Cream to develop a ginger ice-cream. The product so developed was named Adrak Ice-cream. The concept of an ice-cream containing ginger, which would protect the throats of those who relished ice-creams, was seen to have been well received.

Somesh thereafter, called a conference of various department heads to work out a pricing strategy for Adrak Ice cream. The manager for finance wanted the price to be cost of the product plus a 100 percent profit. The R&D chief supported him. He emphasized that the product would be copied in no time and cool cream would lose all the advantages and investments for developing the idea. The sales team advocated a low price to introduce the product so that it would be accepted in the market.

The manufacturing manager was not willing to compromise on quality to cut the price/cost. He insisted that Cool Cream must maintain its fair name at all costs. The purchase manager pointed out to the difficulties of buying and keeping stocks of an agriculture product like ginger. He added that this would add to the cost.

You were invited to this brainstorming session as a consultant and are required recommend a pricing strategy to Somesh Sharma, the owner of the Cool Cream Pvt. Ltd.,

Q.1 Analyze the case and give appropriate solution

Q.2 Do you think the idea of introducing 'Ice-cream with Ginger flavor' will capture the market and sales will increase? Why? or why not?

Title of the Programme.	Awareness Program on Menstrual Hygiene Management
Resource Person	Dr. Yashoda. Babali MO Taluka Health Office CHIKODI
Time &amp; Date	11:30am to 12:30 pm 21/07/2022
Place	KLE Society's Basavaprabhu Kore Arts, Science and Commerce College Chikodi-591201 Karnataka
No. of Beneficiaries	130
Objectives	<ol style="list-style-type: none"><li>1. To find out the prevailing practices for menstrual hygiene among adolescent girls.</li><li>2. To assess restrictions practiced by adolescent college girls during menstruation.</li><li>3. To ascertain the association of awareness of menstruation and practices for menstruation hygiene with educational status of respondents.</li><li>4. To assess the relative contribution of educational status of respondents of using unhygienic practices during menstruation.</li></ol>
Summary of the Programme:	Menstrual cycles often bring about a variety of uncomfortable symptoms leading up to your period. Premenstrual syndrome encompasses the most common issues, such as mild cramping and fatigue, but the symptoms usually go away when your period begins. Menstruation that is too heavy or too light, or the complete absence of a cycle, may suggest that there are other issues that are contributing to an abnormal menstrual cycle. Remember that a "normal" menstrual cycle means something different for every woman. A cycle that's regular for you may be abnormal for someone else. It's important to stay in tune with your body and to consult your doctor Cramps are normal during PMS and they also occur when your uterus contracts as your period begins. However, some women experience excruciating pain. Also called dysmenorrhea, extremely painful menstruation is likely linked to an underlying medical problem.
